the false position in which we have been placed before the pubc, it pecomes us to spend on the system of American Slavery to Resolved, That we believe the system of American Slavery to the spirit e a social, political, and meral evil, and contrary to the spirit

Resolved. That we believe the system of American States be a social, political, and moral will, and contary to the appril of Christianity.

Mr. B. V. Arnott was opposed to that expression on the resolutions which declared that the Association had nothing to do with the question of Slavery.

Mr. A. Shittle expressed his sorrow that the subject of Slavery should ever be brought in to disturb the peace of the Association.

Mr. Tilton was opposed to the preamble and resolutions that had been offseed as a substitute. They believe hot and cold with the same breath. They were partially Pro-Slavery and partially Anti-Slavery. He objected to them chiefly on two grounds. In the first place, they disavowed the right and the duty of the Association—whose object, as explicitly stated in its Constitution, is "to combine the Christian influence of the young men of Brooklyn"—to meet, and meet fairly the great question of Human Freedom. Such a celaration of sentiments on the part of the Association would, if it were passed, he esteemed unusually by every generous man whose mind has been in any degree enlightened on the subject of enslaving human enlightened on the subject of enslaving human beings.

In the second place, he objected to the resolutions as the Association's record on the subject of Slavery, because they were not in a saitable shape for such a record. They had been hastly written and presented, not for a record, but in reply to alleged misrepresentations of the sentiments of the body. He thought that if the Association had been misrepresentation of any thought that if the A-sociation had been misrepre-sented it would be proper to make a correction of any erroneous impression, either by the passage of a reso-lution or in any other suitable mode. And if the pres-ent resolutions were simply designed to dispel a sus-picion injurious to the interests of the A-sociation, he would assent to them, with the exception of the second preamble, which tried to shut the eyes of the Associa-tion, and to make it bind to the subject of Stavery. e could not regard the substitute as a proper fina But he could not regard the substitute as a proper final Anti-Slavery record for the minutes of the Association. He wanted a more complete and comprehensive statement for that purpose. And he wanted the record to be a voluntary act, springing from the Association spontaneously. He did not wish the body to give evidence of having been goaded into an expression of its opinions. He wanted this act to be one of its signal acts. He wanted that act to be one of its signal acts. Association to rise up and with a determined voice bear an earnest, solemn and unequivocal testimony against the sin of the daily denial to four millions of men and women, who are of like blood and destiny with ourselves, of their dearest and most sacred rights. He wanted this testimony to be put on record by the Association, as one of the most effectual ways of silencing misrepresentations of its sentiments. He wanted the utterance of a Christian protest against wanted the utterance of a Christian protest against the unchristian system of involuntary servitude. He believed it was the duty of the Association to utter such a voice, and that the act of bearing such a testimony would be one of the most illustribus acts of its history. He believed that the truth, especially when it is passing through conflict and the trials of controversy, should be declared and maintained in its entireness. He believed that so great and so secred a truth as the doctrine of Human Rights could not be too broadly stated nor too jealously and scrupulously defended. He was not willing to compromise it, even in the least degree. He could not conscientiously give his voice nor his vote to any resolution such as the one now before the house, by which so great a principle is shorn of its length and breadth, and trimmed to sait the narrow purposes of time serving men.

Mr. Lyman proposed to amend the resolutions by insetting after the words "no connection with Slavery," the words "in its political bearings." This amendment was accepted by Mr. Hayes, who said that it was high time to adjourn and go home.

Mr. Errant roce and stated that he believed the was accepted by Mr. Hayes, who said that it was night time to adjourn and go home.

Mr. Ensall, rose and stated that he believed the question of Siavery had been introduced into the Association for the express and deliberate purpose of rending it assuder [Cries of "Order," "Order," from both sides, all over the house].

Mr. Whitz thought that the gentleman (Mr. Edsall) had better take his New Testament and expunge from it every passage relating to Charity and to the Golden Ru's.

A motion to adjourn was made, but lost.

Mr. BELL called the "previous question" [Cries of "No!" "No!" "Freedom of speech!" "Let us have free discussion!"]

Mr. TEN EYCH asked to have the votes recorded.

The Chair decided that no single member could delay the meeting by calling for the ayes and noes.

Mr. Ten Evek appealed, but the chair was sustained.

Mr. Ten Evek said if he could not get the ayes and noes, he would challenge every vote [Laughter].

The Chair presumed that Mr. Ten Eyek had the right to challenge any vote he chose.

The CHAIR presumed that Mr. Ten Eyek had the right to challenge any vote he chose.

Mr. Ten Eyek—Then I challenge the vote of Mr. Woodbridge. He has not paid his dues.

The CHAIR—Mr. Woodbridge has not yet voted! [Great laughter and applaace.]

Mr. Bell.—Mr. Woodbridge has paid his dues, and is entitled to vote [Renewed laughter, during which Mr. Ten Eyek took his seat].

The question was now put on the substitution of Mr. Hayes's resolutions for those of Mr. Williams. The

The question was now put on the substitution of Mr Hayes's resolutions for those of Mr. Williams. The ayes and noes were taken, as follows: Ayes 37, noes 24. Mears. Abbott, Titon, Bliss, and several others voted in the negative, and recorded with their votes an explanation that "the prenaute and resolutions "understate the dectrine of Christianity, on the sub-"ject of Slavery, and amounted only to an evasion of "the duty of the Association with regard to it."

Mr. L. K. Miller thought that the result was not, after all a test vote.

after all, a test vote.

Mr. Ebsall took occasion to resign his connection with the Association, because it had suffered the intro-duction of the question of Shavery; and with this cere-mony, the meeting adjourned.

MURDER IN HOBOKEN.

ARRESTS AND INQUESTS. A death occurred in Hoboken on Friday night last under circumstances which led to the belief shat a murder has been committed. The deceased had been a domestic for over two years past in the family of Frederick Kohler, who lives in a rear house in Washington street, a short distance north of Sixth street, in that city. Her maiden name was Louise Schuler, but the name of her husband is Jansen. She had, since ber marriage, retained her maiden name. Her husband is employed upon one of the California steamers running from this port. He returns about once a month to port, and has generally taken his wages, amounting

On Friday night last at about 8 o'clock Kohlery sent for a physician, who came to his house and found her sitting in an arm-chair speechless, and in a dying condition. She died at 84 o'clock, soon after the physician left. There was a severe bruise upon one side of her head and there were a number of bruises upon her arms and breast. Justice Forster having been in formed of these facts issued a warrant for the arrest o Kebler and his wife, and they were taken into custody by Constable Noll. An inquest was held yesterday by Justice Foster at his office. No testimony could be elicited fixing the offense upon them, but strong sus picions are entertained of their guilt. Kohler and his wife were examined before the Justice and the Jury, and they stated that the deceased said that on the Sat urday night previous to her death, while she was in New-York, she was assaelted in the Park by three mea who beat her, and that was the cause of her death.

ANOTHER ALLEGED ABORTION.

ARREST OF TWO FEMALES-CORONER'S

INQUISITION. Another revolting case of death produced by abertion has just been brought to light. The victim was Mrs. Harriet Lawson, a widow, residing at No. 140 First avenue, the mother of three children, the eldest being a daughter 18 years old. Mrs. Lawson, it appears, has been a widow for about two years, her ausband having been killed on the Harlem Railroad After his death, she employed, as her lawyer, Gen. Nye, who received damages against the Company to the amount of $2,500. Until Wednesday last, the health of the deceased appeared to be good; but on the Friday following, Dr. Bigelow was called in, in great haste, to attend her. The Doctor found her in a delirious state, and suffering the most excruciating pain. He surmised at once that a premature delivery had taken place, and such proved to be the case, as the woman had, a few moments before, been delivered of a five months' child. In the room, the Dogter found a box of pills, the effect of which when taken was to produce abortion. In attendance upon Mrs. Lawson, at this time, were two females, named Anna Dalton and Anna Armitage—the former, a young woman; the latter, a widow and a resident of Williams burgh. It latter, a widow and a resident of Williamsburgh. It being evident to Dr. Bigelow that Mrs. Lawson was fast failing, and believing that she could live but a short time, he informed her of her precarious state, and asked if she had any communications to make; but she was so prostrated that she was scarcely able to speak, and said nothing except that Mr. John Mercarcau, said to be wealthy and living in Cannon street, was the father of her child.

After her death, which took place on Tuesday even-irs, Corener Perry was notified and immediately is sued orders for the arrest of Miss Dalton and Mrs. Armitage, and they were taken into custody by Capt. Harti of the Seventeenth Ward police. The former, after being a short time in custody, made a confession, staing that she had been employed as a "go-bet ween;" also to attend to giving medicines to decessed, to report to certain interested parties how Mrs. Lawson was progressing, Ac. Yesterday afternoon the Coroner impanied a jury at the Seventeenth Ward Station House, and after the members of it had seen the body, he proceeded to take evidence.

Dr. Bigelow was the first witness sworn, and testitate the feets credited to him shove.

Dr. Issae H. Merkel, of No. 310 East Broadway, who had attended deceased and administered to her a variety of nedicines, was sext called to the stand, but owing to the lateness of the hour, we are unable to give his evidence. When upon the stand, this witness appeared to be laboring under great nervous excitement.

Most of the money which deceased received from the Railroad Company, it is said, has been stolen from her, or leaned by her to parties who have not returned it. It is further stated that a notorious down-town it. It is further stated that a notorious down-town abortionist has had something to do in this case, and that deceased, some time before her death, visited the house of this person. The affair at present appears complicated and revolting, but the Coroner has hopes of being able to reach all the facts, and fasten guilt upon the guilty. The deceased was a native of this city, 49 years of age, and respectably connected. Her daughter, alluded to above, was sent to Mott Haven, in Westchester County, about two weeks ago, and has not returned.

FIRES AND THEIR ORIGIN .- Since the cold weather et in this season, a greater number of fires have oc curred in various parts of the city than during any other period of similar duration ever known in New-York. In consequence of the extremely cold weather York. housekeepers have kept unusually large fires in their stoves, and having neglected to afford suitable protection to the wood-work near which the stoves are genrally placed, by means of frames covered with zine or tin, it has ignited from the great heat. The largest and most destructive fires that bave occurred in New-York this Winter have been occasioned by hot-air furnaces. At the great fire in Murray and Warren streets two months since, although all traces of the origin of the fire were destroyed, the proprietors of the warehouse in which it commenced now confidently believe that it was caused by some defect in the flues conneeted with the hot-air furnaces.

This apparatus for heating buildings has only been in use a few years, and we venture to assert that more fires have originated from it than from any other cause known. It is constructed as follows: In the cellar or sub-cellar is built a large furnace of brick, connected with the air chambers of which are tin flues of an oblong shape, two feet in length and eight or nine inches wide. These flues are extended to the hight of the building, through the walls, and opening on each floor by a register. The furnace and flues, with the hot air they emit, are well enough for those who like them. It is, however, of their construction and the manuer in which they originate fires, of which we would speak. In order to afford ample room, the walls of our warehouses are built as narrow as possible, and where the flues are used only the thickness of one brick is laid on each side of the flue. The beams would necessarily immediately adjoin the flues unless trimmed, which course is usually pursued. Nevertheless, with this precaution, fires have occurred and proved very destructive. Although trimming has been done, yet builders have overlooked the matter of constructing the flooring and surbasing also a sufficient distance rom the walls, which are very hot for the distance of two or three feet on either side of the flue. In every warehouse where hot air is used the walls for the dissance above-mentioned are too hot for persons to hold their hands upon. This great heat, day after day, has rendered the flooring and surbasings as dry as tinder, and upon the building of an unusually hot fire the woodwork alluded to has ignited. This is a n atter which builders should look after and

The fire in a dwelling-house in Fifth avenue some ime since, by which many persons had narrow escapes with their lives, was caused by a hot-air furace. Two fires night before last in Murray and Vesey streets originated from this cause; also a number of others, the localities of which we do not now

The subject is one of vast importance to our merchants and builders, and due attention should be paid

ANNUAL ONSLAUGHT UPON THE RAILROADS .- The Hudson River Railroad Company were attended to last night, as they have been every few months since he road was built. What these annoyances mean may be guessed from the fact that of the hundred similar resolutions nothing has come of any of themthey were dropped, or garroted somehow; and seem to be got up expressly to be quieted. What sort of chleroform is used is a mystery known only to the special and other Committees and the managers of the road. On the occasion last night the regular Railroad Committee was not to be trusted, and so a Special Committee was raised, making, in reality, two Committees on Railroads.

ANOTHER HIGHWAY ROBBERY-CAPTURE OF THE ROBBERS .-- Policemen Matthews and Austin of the Twenty-first Ward, while in an oyster saloon at the corner of Thirty-fifth street and Second avenue, on Tuesday night, observed two thieves, named Mike Nugent and George Hyde, watching a man named George Kresson, who was slightly intoxicated. Soon after, Kresson left, and was immediately followed by the thieves. The officers knewing the character of the latter, followed them as closely as they could without being seen, until they saw one of the men knock Kresson down and seize him by the throat, while the other proceded to rob him. While the two men were engaged on their victim, the officers came up and arrested both. Nugeat immediately dropped a knife and some other articles, which he had stoles from their victim. The prisoners were taken before Justice Flandreau and locked up.

THE OMNIBUS SPECULATION.—Remonstrances were offered last night in the Board of Councilmen against the proposed line of stages in Lexington avenue and Irving place. Although no petition for such a line has been offered, and although the remoustrances were signed by every resident on the route above-named, a bold effort was made to kick the remonstrance aside. a motion to lay on the table having got 26 Yeas to 28 Nays. The thing is undoubtedly all fixed, and the remonstrants will have no weight in the matter, even should they number nine-tenths of all the property owners in the city. The Central Power has decreed the line, and the people must submit, especially as the vote of the Common Council cannot be counted among doubtful powers."

CONFLICT BETWEEN POLICEMEN AND BURGLARS-PISTOLS, CARTRUNGS, &C., AS WEAPONS.-Officers Martin and Jourdan of the Sixth Ward Police, on Tuesday night discovered that the silversmith-shop o Michael Gibney, No. 8 Reade street, had been broken open, and, on entering the place, found two men, but, owing to the darkness, one of them escaped. The other fought desperately, but was brought to terms by a tep on the head with a club, and was conveyed to the Station-House. He proved to be Charles Gray, alias Wm. Thompson. While at the Station-House, the prisoner confessed that the party seen in his company could be found at a certain house in Hamersley street, and to this house Capt. Dowling and Officer Jourdan proceeded. Having ascertained that the party wanted was in an upper room, they proceeded there and arrested him, but at the moment one Hennessy, who was in the room, seized a pistol and, puting it to Capt. Dowling a face, threatened to shoot him unless he released the prisoner. The Captain then drew his revolver and snapped it three times at the fellow, but each time it missed fire. Women and children then rushed into the room, armed with broomsticks, pokers and cart-rungs, and a general fight was the result, during which Capt. D. was struck a heavy blow upon the head with a cart-rung, and lost his prisoner, who escaped. Hennessy was, however, secured

ALLEGED ROBBERY BY A CLERK .- A young man re siding in Brooklyn, named Robert —, was arrested yesterday, charged with stealing $150 from the money rawer of his employer, Mr. W. B. Sudden Death of a New-York Merchant.—
From the Columbus (Ohio) papers, we learn the death of Mr. Joshua Baldwin late of the firm of Baldwin, Dibblee & Work, of this City. On the 9th inst., Mr. Baldwin dined at the house of Mr. R Neil of Columbus, and was at that time in perfect good health. He shortly afterward repaired to the reading-room of a hotel, and while conversing there with Mr. Neil, the latter observed a singular change in his appearance. Medical aid was immediately sought, but arrived too late. In three minutes Mr. Baldwin was a corpse.

Mr. Baldwin was widely known and universally respected in this City and in Columbus. He had accumulated a handsome fortune. His decease will be severely felt, outside of the circle of his friends and relatives, by numbers who always regarded him as a friend

This is an action against the former proprietors of the Present Home, as amb.

In May, 1854, Mrs. Brown stopped at that house as a guest, and remained through the month of June. On the 35th of June she alleges that she lost two diamond rings, one valued at $1,000 and the other at $70,000 the were stolen, as she alleges, rom the bureau drawer in her absunce. The defendants denythant the lost took place in the manner averred, and ascribe it to the lady's own negligence.

The proof was insufficient to prove the loss or value of the rings, but as far as it went, showed carelesses on the part of the plaintiff in placing the rings in a boreaul in the room occupied by her in said holds to which four of its employees had every having keys to enter in the performance of their dottes.

THE JOHN-STREET CHURCH DIFFICULTY—AN INJUNCTION ON THE SALE GRANTED.

D. Wyatt and twenty six others agt. B. W. Beason et al.

The plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other members of the Congregation and Society of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, pray that the defendants may be restrained from taking any further proceedings for a sale of the John-street Church.

The complaint goes over the whole history of the fight between the down-towners and up-towners down to the award of Bishop Simpson, and the order made to the award of Bishop Simpson, and the order made at Special Term confirmatory thereof, from which an appeal is now pending.

The plaintiffs further state that a large majority of the members and corporators of the Society and the legally elected Trustees are opposed to the sale and removal; and that the present plaintiffs were not parremoval; and that the present plaintiffs were not parties to the previous actions or to the submissions made to Bishop Simpson, and are, therefore, not bound by his award, or the order made thereon.

The defendants deny the allegations of the complaint. From the numerous affidavits that were read/it is apparent that a large majority of the congregation and members of the Church are and have been, since the first institution of the proceedings for that purpose, opposed to the sale and removal of the church from John street to Madison square.

P. Y. Culter and L. S. Chaffield argued the case for the plaintiffs and E. S. Fancher and J. W. Edmonds for defendants.

Judge Davies rendered a long and encovace opinion this morning, in which he cites the provisions of the general act for the incorporation of religious societies, so far as they apply in this case; and quotes from the opinion of the Court of Appeals, in Robinson agt. Bullions (1 Kernan 243), as embodying the law on the Buillons (I Kernan 213), as embodying the law on the first queetion raised.

"That case holds that religious societies, and not their trustees, constitute bedies corporate under this act, their members being the corporators, and the trustees merely the managing officers of the corporation; and that the whole act shows that it was the intention of the Legislature to place the control of the temporal affairs of these religious societies in the hands of the inflairs of these religious societies in the hauds of the majority of the corporators, independent of priest or bishop, presbytery, synod, or other ecclesiastical judicators. 2 Kent's Comm 314.

2. On a review of the law it is further held as the better opinion, that no religious corporation could, while the office of Chancellor existed, sell real estate in fee without his order, or can now, without an application to the Superior Court, made by the corporation. That, the order of the Court giving its consent to the sate of the John street Church, having been made on the petition of a majority of the Board of Trustees, in pursuance of a resolution adopted at such Board, which is to be regarded as nothing more than the opinion of a certain number of the corporators, can have been made only on the assumption that the petitioners did represent the views of the corporation, and therefore furnished sufficient authority for granting the consent given. That the order being still in fier, and unexecuted, no rights having been acquired under it, is under the centrol of the Court, whose duty it clearly is, as it is now apparent that the measure is in opposition to the views of a large majority of the Corporators, to withdraw such consent inasmuch as the Court has no power rect a Corporation to sell its property against it Vide matter of the Reformed Dutch Caurch, I to direct a Corporation to sell its property against to will. It is further held that the question as to whether the At is further and that the question of competent for any tribunal, other than the Supreme Court, to pass upon, and that no arbitrator can say whether such real es-tate shall be soid or not, as it rests solely in the discre-tion of the Court, which cannot delegate it to any one else. confirmation are not binding upon the plaintiffs, and present no obstacle to the relief which they sak.

The Court, therefore, concludes as follows:

"The consent of this Court to the sale of the church, given on the application of a portion of the Trustees, and not sanctioned by a majority of the Corporation, should be withdrawn and revoked, and an injunction should issue to restrain the defendants from taking further proceedings in relation to the sale.

The Court goes on to express its regret at the bitter state of feeling existing in the Society, and ends with a piece of good advice to all parties to actite the difficulty anicably, by striking some compromise between John street and Madison square.

THE CONTROLLERSHIP CONTEST NOT OVER.

The People of rel. John S. Giles act. A. C. Flags.

This is a motion to open an extra allowance of $47.5 made to defendant, and for a retaration of costs in this cause, which is the famous controversy with regard to the Controllership. The allowance was made by Judge Clerke, on an argument had before him by consent, in December last. The plaintiff claims that he had no notice of the taxation of costs, and that the consent given by the Attorney General to the hearing of the notice for an allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and that the allowance is not binding upon the relator, and the counsel for Mr. Giles asserting that the Jury which tried the cause was composed of men opposed to him in politics, and the counsel for Mr. Flags charging fraud, ac upon the relator,

A QUESTION IN THE LAW OF LIFE-INSURANCE.
Eveline Ryan Executric of John C. Ryan, deceased, agt.
The New-York Life-Insurance Company.
This action is upon a policy of insurance on the life of John C. Ryan of Mobile, in the amount of $5 000.
The deceased, in the declaration upon the faith of which the original policy, which commenced running on the 28th of February, 1853, was made, stated that he had no sickness other than dyspepsis, piles, and a temporary cold, with which exceptions he was in good besith.

The second annual premium became due on the 28th of February, 1854, by the conditions of the policy, but was not paid until the 7th of March, when the defendants refused to receive such premium and renew the policy, except on the condition that he (Ryan) was in good health at the time. The deceased thereupon addressed a note to the Actuary of the Company, wherein he demanded that the insurance should be continued, without further condition or exception, or that they without further condition or exception, or that they should cancel it and return the premium, and refused to make a further explanation as to his health. The premium was retained. Mr. Ryan died in May, 1854.

These are the facts, as they appear in evidence, and the parties take is no upon the effect of the transactions of March.

Upon this point the Court held that if the deceased Upon this point the Court held that if the deceased was afflicted with ne other disease on the 7th of March than those mentioned in his original declaration, and if those were not aggravated in such wire as to render his condition more piccarious and tend to shorten life, he was in good beasth within the meaning of the policy, that being the basis of the contract. To this part of the charge the defendants excepted, and the question, which is one of no slight importance in the law of life insurance, will doubtless be carried up.

Verdict for plaintiff for $5.865.25. For plaintiff, D. Lord, for defendants, Miller & Develin.

THE JAMES BACH WILL.

In the matter of the will of James Bach.

The investigation in this case was continued to day.
The question at issue, it will be remembered, is with regard to the valielty of an instrument presented for probate as a will, whereby the decedent's property is divided between Mrs. Chumbank and Mrs. Montfort, two widows who lived in his house during the latter part of his life. The Public Administrator contests it on the ground that Mr. Back was insane.

The first of the two witnesses called by the contestants today was—day was—James B. Keyser, a book keeper, who had known the deceased for twenty-five years, from the time witness was five years old, the two families having been on very intimate terms.

According to his testimony, Mr. Bach was taken in four or five years ago and has been feedle ever since, often completing of an affection of the head. On the first of hast April, witness called on Mr. Bach, who, after talking rationally for some moments, began to speak wildly about subjects win which witness had no concern. Almyhim for instance—he was a book keeper-how much produce he raised for marketing. Mrs. Gambault and Montfort, who were down stairs, said that Mr. Bach's state of mind was soon that they could do nothing with him and had to use fitned to keep him in his room.

Wilmess called again on the next day, but Mr. Bach did not recognize him, but kept his head down and mombles to kinned? Subsequently he called on Dr. Storer, who advised him to have Mr. Bach put in the Lunaite Asylum, to which he objected that it would be a strange thing if a man could not live in his own house after he had made a competency, but the Dr. said: "Mr. "Keyser you don't know how comfortable he would be at the "Asylum, he is crazy," acc.
